

Measuring Support for Equality in the 114th Congress

CONGRESSIONAL SCORECARD

HUMAN RIGHTS CAMPAIGN

DEAR FRIENDS,

Over the past two years, we have seen significant victories for the lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer community, including the U.S. Supreme Court's marriage equality decision and the lifting of the ban on open transgender military service. Although the 114th Congress failed to pass any significant LGBTQ-friendly legislation, we have continued to see growing bipartisan support for pro-equality legislation and amendments.

Notably, this Congress saw the introduction of the Equality Act, a landmark federal non-discrimination bill that would ensure all LGBTQ Americans have consistent and explicit non-discrimination protections across key areas of life, including employment, housing, credit, education, public spaces and services, federally funded programs, and jury service. The Equality Act was introduced with more than 200 original co-sponsors – the most congressional support that any piece of pro-LGBTQ legislation has received upon introduction. We are grateful to all of the supporters of this bipartisan legislation and are especially grateful to Reps. David Cicilline (D-RI) and John Lewis (D-GA) and Sens. Jeff Merkley (D-OR), Tammy Baldwin (D-WI), and Cory Booker (D-NJ), whose leadership guided the introduction of this bill in both chambers, and to Sen. Mark Kirk (R-IL) and Reps. Bob Dold (R-IL) and Ileana Ros-Lehtinen (R-FL) for joining as the first Republican co-sponsors.

Meanwhile, in both chambers, pro-LGBTQ amendments received strong support from both sides of the aisle, even when they failed to be adopted. In the Senate, a bipartisan majority adopted a non-binding budget amendment to ensure that same-sex couples had access to Social Security and veteran benefits. Bipartisan majorities also voted for non-discrimination protections for LGBTQ youth in runaway and homeless youth programs, extending access to critical veteran spousal benefits to all married same-sex couples, and for LGBTQ non-discrimination protections in schools. Unfortunately, all of these amendments failed to receive the 60 votes needed to proceed.

In the House of Representatives, a bipartisan majority adopted two amendments affirming President Obama's executive order prohibiting LGBTQ discrimination by federal contractors. Despite these positive votes, an identical amendment fell one vote short of passage after Republican leadership held open the vote and twisted the arms of seven Republicans to change their "yes" votes to "no" votes. The House also voted to prevent the federal government from withholding funds from North Carolina – thereby limiting the federal government's ability to penalize North Carolina for its anti-transgender House Bill 2 – and to codify broad religious exemptions into federal contracts. In addition, in the wake of the worst mass shooting in U.S. history, House Republican leadership took more than a month to schedule a vote condemning the Pulse nightclub shooter. To make matters worse, on the one-month anniversary of the shooting, the House Oversight and Government Reform Committee held a hearing on the discriminatory First Amendment Defense Act, which would allow for government-sanctioned discrimination against LGBTQ people, if passed.

While we have clearly experienced several important milestones over the past two years, the 114th Congress has often been an impediment to further progress for the LGBTQ community. We hope this scorecard will aid you in understanding your elected officials' support for LGBTQ equality and will inspire you to take action to ensure that your elected officials embody the pro-equality values we all hold dear.

Sincerely,
